Using Video to Develop Teaching

Niels Brouwer

The introduction of digital technology to video use has opened up new opportunities for raising the quality of teaching and learning. This book provides the first integrated account of how digital video can be used to develop teaching competence. It shows not only how using video can help teachers move towards more dialogic forms of teaching and learning, but also how such change benefits pupils' learning and behaviour. Based on extensive literature reviews this book provides an overview of "visual teacher learning" and summarises what is known about instructional improvements that teachers can achieve by engaging in it.

Reviews

"Digital video has in the last decades become the single most helpful tool for advancing teaching and teacher education. This comprehensive and multi-faceted book covers the power and effectiveness of this seminal medium in an impressive way." - Kurt Reusser, Professor Emeritus, Universität Zürich, Switzerland

"The Visual Teacher Learning model developed by Niels Brouwer places at the core of teachers' work how they bring learners to engage with the content of learning, which entails the cognitive, emotional and social domains... This book will make a significant contribution to developing teacher educators' competencies for using Visual Teacher Learning in their work." - Carmen Montecinos, Professor of Psychology, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso, Chile
